1. The Dubno (West Ukraine) tinned food factory was built prior to World War II by the Polish Bacon Company of Gniezno. It was located about three-quarters of a mile northwest of the railroad station in Dubno. The plant was taken over by the Germans in 1941 and remained in their hands until 1944. During this period it was known as "Fleish-und Obstkonservenfabrik, Osthandels-gesellschaft Dubno." Included among its products were fat, sausages, bacon and tinned meat, chicken, vegetables and fruit. Approximately 300 people were employed.
2. The Germans built a two-story, reinforced concrete addition to the factory to house the vegetable and fruit department. Modern equipment was installed, including boilers, agitators, filters, etc. Most of this was dismantled and returned to Germany in January, 1944, but the factory was not destroyed.
